

Districts call off school due to staffing shortage

JOHNSON COUNTY — A shortage in staff and substitute teachers has been credited as to why several school districts recently called off in-person classes or canceled school.

Students, substitutes and teachers are calling in due to sickness, including COVID-19, flu and cold.

“We started seeing ... our number of staff members that were going to be out was reaching that critical level where we couldn’t provide substitutes and we were not going to be able to effectively instruct students,” Warrensburg Superintendent Andy Kohl said.

Some districts implemented Alternative Methods of Instruction days, which allows students to attend school virtually and can be used to reduce the number of school days students need to make up if the school is unable to meet in person. An AMI day is still considered a day of instruction. However, the state allows school districts to provide 36 hours of alternative instruction out of the 1,044 total hours of instruction required each school year, according to The Associated Press.

Kohl said Ridgeview Elementary was down 16 staff members and Maple Grove was down 18 staff members, as well as other district buildings, on Friday, Jan. 14. Schools were closed Monday, Jan. 17, in observance of Martin Luther King Jr. Day. Warrensburg later announced Tuesday, Jan. 18 as an AMI day.

Warrensburg and Chilhowee both canceled school for Thursday and Friday, Jan. 20-21 due to sub-freezing temperatures and absences of staff and students.

“The district has a large number of staff members out and our substitute pool is running short,” the Chilhowee School District posted on Facebook the morning of Jan. 13. By the evening, the district had announced an AMI day for Jan. 14.

Chilhowee resumed classes Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 18-19.

“Knob Noster Schools will be closed on Friday, Jan. 14, 2022, due to absenteeism related to COVID illness and other non-COVID illnesses,” Knob Noster School District posted on social media. “This calendar change is designed to give our school community an extended weekend to rest and self-isolate in conjunction with the closure for Martin Luther King, Jr. Day on Monday, Jan. 17, 2022.”

Knob Noster later announced school for Tuesday through Friday, Jan. 18-21, would be canceled due to illness and staffing issues.

“We were able to fill all of our teaching positions prior

American Legion, VFW help 1-135th Battalion

WARRENSBURG — The American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars joined forces in December to help the 1-135th Assault Helicopter Battalion celebrate Christmas with a $990 donation.

William A. Carleton Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2513 Chaplain Teresa Shaw received a call from unit leadership asking for help to pay for their active-duty member's Christmas meal.

"A soldier on active duty with the National Guard has to pay for their own meals, even for a party," Shaw said. "The unit really wanted all of their soldiers to have a free meal at the Dec. 4 unit Christmas party."

Shaw knew her post could not afford the entire amount, but "Post Commander Howard Good said we could do $300 if we could get some other posts to pitch in."

She reached out to Knob Noster VFW Post 4195 Commander Jeff Willming, who said their post could donate $300.

"Then we got a $390 donation from the Matthew-Crawford American Legion Post 131," Shaw said. "Through these partnerships, we raised $990."

On Nov. 17, Good presented 1-135th Staff Sgt. Travis Mobley with the check. Mobley presented Good with a certificate of appreciation from the 1-135th and the thanks from the unit's members.

"Our troops dedicate long hours and sacrifice personal time for all of us," Shaw said. "All of us VFW and American Legion members remember those days well. We were happy to help."

ANSWERS TO Star-Journal's PRIZEWEEK PUZZLE

January 14th Answers $300 Could Have Been Yours!

There was NO WINNER last week, be sure to look in today's Star-Journal for your chance to win up to $350

ACROSS

- THUMPS not trumps. THUMPS is apt. Since trump means to win or beat another, referring to ending "the game" is unnecessary because the "game," at that point, would be over.
- FAILS not falls. Falling is one form of FAILING. FAILS is, therefore, an all-encompassing answer.
- SCALDS not scolds. "One cook" might accidentally SCALD another but usually a scolding is indeed intentional.
- MEAL not zeal. Zeal is, in itself, a "boost" and therefore redundant. MEAL is a better answer.
- FLIES not flier. Grammatically speaking, it would be the number of planes that the "visitor" would be questioning, not the fliers. FLIES is a straightforward answer.
- DETAIN not retain. By DETAINING him, she might risk annoying him. But a "very busy" "lawyer" is probably much in demand because he's a good one, so that if he agrees to handle her "case," and there's nothing in the clue to suggest otherwise, then she'd probably be happy about retaining him.
- SHAVE not share. He might have "every right to complain" about a poor SHAVE since it would likely be obvious. However, share needs further explanation, because the husband's unhappiness with it doesn't necessarily mean it is an unfair share; it could simply mean that he had different expectations.
- FIR not air. FIR is better than air since it wouldn't be the air that the "tourist" would be looking at but rather, it would be the sky.

DOWN

- STRIFE not strike. Since a strike is one form of STRIFE, the comprehensive answer would be STRIFE.
- SPICE not space. The word "probably" links up well with SPICE, which they'd "probably need" for the drinks and dishes they'll be preparing. They'd definitely "need a lot of" space, since they're discussing "big" events.
- PAWS not jaws. The fact that the clue focuses specifically on animals makes PAWS an appropriate answer. Humans as well as some machines have "powerful" jaws.
- FLOW not glow. Before becoming "molten," "metal" can glow. But "metal" must be "molten" in order for it to FLOW.
- SEE not set. SEE is a comprehensive answer that includes setting "everyone at ease" at a "party."
- PIPE not pike. PIPE is best. The phrase "while out fishing" makes pike superfluous.
- FLESHY not flashy. FLESHY is apt. A person who looks flashy could appear to be vulgar or trashy, which might have little to do with wealth.
- MISTER not master. MISTER is apt. "Not every man" suggests that most are "called this," but only a small minority of men who have a rank or title are "called" master.
- WIFE not wine. "To upset your" WIFE is a good answer. Grammatically speaking, a person upsets a glass of wine, not the wine itself.

Make time for love

Do those you love really know how much you love them?

When we are first married, the honeymoon period is fantastic! All we think about is how much we love each other and how sparkly life is going to be now that we know that we will be together forever. That feeling is so special.

But suddenly we find ourselves doing the everyday tasks of working, cleaning, cooking, paying bills and meeting other commitments.

When life becomes “normal” we sometimes forget to say, “I love you” or “I love spending time with you.” It’s not that we don’t want to, we simply begin to focus on other things that require our attention.

Add children to the mix and time alone together becomes difficult to obtain, let alone manage.

The love for our children becomes our priority. Meeting their needs and making sure they know they are loved overrides everything.

As children grow, there are more and more things to accomplish in the 24 hours that are provided to us each day.

Sometimes there isn’t enough time to manage the basic things in life, let alone think about the needs of our spouse.

As you go, there might come a time when one or both spouses begin to feel unappreciated or neglected. That’s rarely ever true, but because we didn’t make time to purposefully let the other know how special they are, it becomes a problem.

More often than not, it’s a problem that goes unattended. We don’t talk about it. We hold it in and allow it to consume us. We make ourselves believe that because our spouses are busy with life, they don’t love us.

This is a slippery, dangerous course.

Everyone wants to feel loved and adored. We need that from a relationship. If we don’t feed it, love won’t grow.

It’s not inclusive to our spouses. It can unintentionally happen with our children as well. We go, go and go some more. We become tired and sometimes it’s all we can do to get a few hours of sleep only to get up and do it again.

When I was in that stage of life I made it a habit to say, “I love you” every time I parted ways with my kids and husband. But I look back now and wonder about the ways in which I actually showed them that what I said was true.

If you are a young married couple with children I have a piece of advice: Your house will be there to clean tomorrow, your friends will sometimes have to wait and you don’t have to belong to every booster club for every activity that your children participate in.

Take time to talk to your spouse about life. Look each other in the eyes when you say, “I love you.” Smile, hug and let them know that you are there if they need you.

Set aside alone time with each child at least once a week. Have game and movie nights. Make chores a family event. Create a secure bond that allows everyone in your immediate family to feel like a team. Be sure that they feel your love.

In the thickness and clutter of life, we often fail to prioritize correctly. We start out with the best intentions but we fall out of line when we allow insignificant things (or people) to distract us.

Going to church is one of those things that often takes a backseat because by Sunday morning, all we want to do is get a couple of extra hours of sleep. But again, it all comes down to how we prioritize our time.

One day, you’ll wake up and the last child will be leaving the nest. There are no second chances with them. We only have one. Ask yourself if you are being who you need them to be. Are they feeling love by your actions or only hearing the words? Sometimes we even forget to say the words.

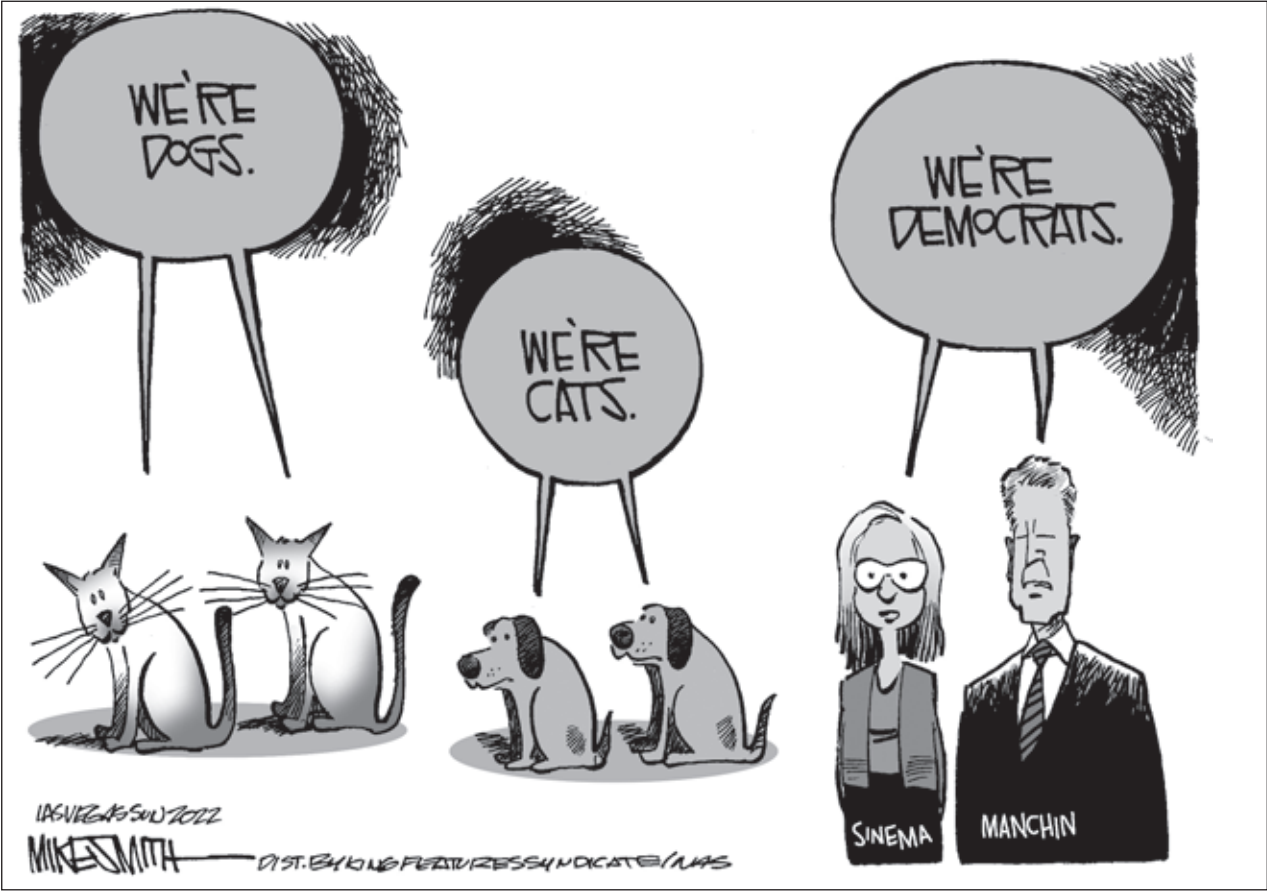

The same things apply to our spouses. On the day that you wake up and the last child is leaving the nest, will you even know who your spouse is? Have you spent enough time nurturing that relationship?

You don’t have to be everything to everyone outside of your immediate family. You can learn to discern what is truly important and what is not.

If you do that, so many good things will come to you later in life.

There will be time to join organizations, spend time with friends and enjoy hobbies. And along with it, the people you love the most will love you right back in ways that you would never expect.

Make time to love — really love. You won’t regret it.

BEN ON WINE

A dreadful malady called history

The white wines of Bordeaux have never achieved the aura of magnificence that surrounds the red wines of that district.

In truth, the white wines of Bordeaux, except for a very few, are today, almost invisible.

These wines most definitely are not in any way the lesser of the two styles but suffer from a dreadful malady called history.

For centuries, the rule was “red wine for the men, white wine for the ladies.”

That was perfect for the male-dominated societies of the “way back when,” but it has not carried through to the present time of sexual equality.

About the only place where that ancient form of prejudice still exists is in the knowledge of the white Bordeaux wines and their often misleading affordable price.

Another factor that also should be considered is the choice of the wine that is to accompany the foods we eat. Seafood, shellfish, Asian, Mexican, salads, vegetarian, vegan and so many more of the lighter foods we currently enjoy should be accompanied by white wine.

If you can forget wine snobbery and the ancient traditions, there are white wines in the marketplace that are as enjoyable as any red wine and nowhere near as costly.

I must digress here to offer a simple comparison between the wines of California and those from the vineyards of Bordeaux.

The soil, the climate and even the water that irrigates the vines in Bordeaux are unlike any other place on earth. Therefore, the grapes produce wines that are unique and totally identifiable by taste and aroma as coming from Bordeaux.

Château Roquefort ($18)

Made from a blend of 85% Sauvignon Blanc and 15% Sémillon, this wine is about as Bordeaux as a wine can get without being red.

The wine displays that individual and definitely identifiable Bordeaux flavor element found in none of the world’s other white wines.

The overpowering grassy aroma often associated with many sauvignon blanc wines is just not there. The flavor and finish are resplendent with litchi, pineapple, grapefruit and tangerines, which continue on to the finish where it offers an abundance of litchi, pineapple and citrus.

All in all, a fine wine at a fine price.

Château Clarence Dillon 2019 Bordeaux Blanc ($24.99)

In true Bordeaux tradition, the wine is a blend of 62% semillon, 28% sauvignon blanc and 10% muscadelle.

This wine displays the aroma and flavor that clearly marks it as French and from Bordeaux featuring melons along with a hint of freshly mowed grass. The flavors of melon, peach and pineapple dominate the finish, which is fruity, just as interesting and unforgettable.

If you have lost interest in sauvignon blanc in recent years, try this offering from Bordeaux and I am sure that you will be pleasantly surprised.

2019 Château Beau Rivage ($14.99)

Château Beau Rivage is another wine that follows the Bordeaux traditional makeup of semillon, sauvignon blanc and muscadelle.

The aroma of this wine, however, centers on apples, both red and green, and the variety’s telltale straw.

The wine is soft and very smooth and has a reasonably long finish.

Here is another wine that defies the Bordeaux price ceiling and offers both excellence and quality and all at a very affordable price.

Château Haut Rian 2016 Cote de Bordeaux Blanc ($14.95)

While well known for their red wines, Château Haut Rian (Ho Ree ahn) also produces a white wine whose quality is the same as that of their red.

The wine is composed of two-thirds old vine Semillon and one-third Sauvignon Blanc, a blend that should prove to be more than just interesting.

Lemon and lime with hints of honeydew abound in the aroma, which slowly morphs into the scent of newly mowed grass, all of which continue on to the flavor of the finish.

The Cateau. Haut Rian 2016 Cote de Bordeaux Blanc is an excellent representative to introduce a wine lover to the beauties of Bordeaux white wines and should be judged by its qualities and not its price.

GARDEN CORNER

New year, new garden

By Susan Burch

This time of year, we evaluate many areas of our lives and look for ways to improve. It is also a great time to evaluate our gardens’ plants and performance over the past year.

One of our warmer winter days is a great time to take a walk-about through our yards, then come back in and cozy up with a notebook and a cup of tea.

Start with recognizing your successes.

What were the plants and vignettes that brought you joy during the year and what edibles filled your table? I think about two annuals that I grew from seed for the first time: nicotiana and calendula.

The nicotiana was a great performer that added a light airy feeling to the flower beds. Blooms floated above many other flowers and gave a feeling of fullness as seasons transitioned. Calendula took a bit longer to take off but its color was so cheerful and both of these annuals lasted until frost.

In the vegetable garden, I tried two new plants. I planted carrots in a galvanized tub and it was a success. I decided to grow huckleberries instead of edamame.

I was delighted to come across huckleberry seeds as they grew wild and were eaten with abandon in my youth. The plants did superbly here and I was able to preserve three batches of jam and make two huckleberry pies. The family votes to plant them again.

What grew well for you and did you use it?

An abundance of jalapenos is not good if half is wasted. Only grow what you will actually use. Do you need to grow more of a crop to preserve it? Do you need to expand your veggie plot for more food security? Do you need to add fencing for pests or trellises for climbers?

Make a list of trees and shrubs that need to be pruned in the next month or two. All diseased or rubbing branches need to be addressed. If you have beloved plants that are starting to wane, pruning will encourage new growth that is good for propagating.

Research possible plants to put in newly opened areas.

Did the combination of Walker’s Low catmint and Scottish Fantasy lily look so good that you want to repeat it in other areas of the garden?

Start a vision folder for your outside areas. Place real pictures or those torn from magazines in it. You can also do an electronic version. Gathering such material helps you define your gardening style. The notebook comes in handy for making a master list. Label a page for each area you currently plant in.

Start each list with the things that need to be done and also put the things you would like to do. Somehow thinking specifically and writing your intentions down solidifies your vision in your mind.

You will be surprised next year at how much you actually get done on your list even if you don’t look at it for a year.

Small changes and focused tasks can bring about positive changes in our gardens and in our lives.

Susan Burch has been with Master Gardeners of Johnson County since 2009.

to the start of the school year,” Leeton Superintendent Marc Spunaugle said. “We are experiencing difficulty with our substitute teacher pool. The need for substitute teachers, paras, custodians, cooks, drivers is great and we are critically low on supply for those positions. It is exceptionally difficult to fill the full-time non-certified positions when they come open. We raised our sub pay this year in the hope that we would draw additional personnel.”

The Leeton School District implemented an AMI day for Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 18-19. The district later posted that school would be in session Thursday, Jan. 20, because there were those that inquired about subbing.

“There have been days where teachers and administrators have had to cover classes unable to be filled by substitutes,” Crest Ridge School District Superintendent Brett Gray said.

Kingsville Superintendent Lorna Warren said the district has faced a shortage of subs.

“Unfortunately, yes we have had a shortage of substitutes this year,” Warren said. “Our staff does a great job of filling in when needed so that classes may continue in person.”

Kingsville and Holden have not announced cancellations due to weather, staffing or illness as of press time.

“It’s a nationwide problem and it’s not just an education problem either,” Kohl said. “A lot of employers are really feeling the crunch to get staff. It hurts us in our substitutes, it hurts us with custodians, paras. Some of those positions, it’s pretty tough to find qualified staff to fill those positions.”

Generations of Missouri

Dred and Harriet Scott

Chapter Two

Annie, age 48 & Sarah, age 8 | 1857

Sarah stood in a crowd on the steps of the courthouse next to her grandmother. It was a beautiful spring day with fluffy clouds floating above the muddy Mississippi. Sarah could feel her Grandmother Annie's thin hand clinging to hers as they stood among the onlookers. Sarah would much rather be spending such a spring morning playing with neighbors. But her grandmother had insisted that they walk down to the courthouse together.

"Grandmother," Sarah whined. "What are we waiting for?"

"Hush now, Sarah," her grandmother told her, craning her neck to see above the crowd. "We're waiting to hear the outcome of a significant legal case. I know it's hard to be patient," she told Sarah. "But my father brought me downtown on another important day, and now it's your chance to see history!"

In Sarah's mind, history was something that happened a long time ago to old people!

The crowd quieted down when a man in a suit came out of the courthouse.

"They've been freed!"

Sarah's family didn't own slaves, but she knew others who did. She saw them in her community, just as her grandmother had, throughout her lifetime. The adults around her seemed to be arguing a lot about slavery. Some people wanted there to be slaves while others wanted slavery to end. The anger from both sides seemed to be reaching a boiling point.

Standing side by side, Sarah and Grandmother Annie watched the Scotts leave the courthouse. They looked tired, weathered even. But Dred and Harriet stood with their shoulders straight and their backs proud.

As they began the walk home, Annie told Sarah a little bit more about the case.

"The Scotts have been fighting for their freedom in the courts for over a decade now," she told her. "Just a few months ago, their case went all the way to the Supreme Court! But the judges said that people of African descent were not intended to be included as citizens in the United States Constitution. The Supreme Court did not grant the Scotts their freedom."

"So, how did they get to be freed today?" Sarah asked.

"Their owners now live in Massachusetts. They transferred ownership to the Blow family here in St. Louis, and the Blows emancipated them."

"Emancipated?" Sarah asked.

"Freed."

Sarah wondered what it would feel like to be "owned" and then "freed." She'd been free for her entire life. She and her family had always been citizens.

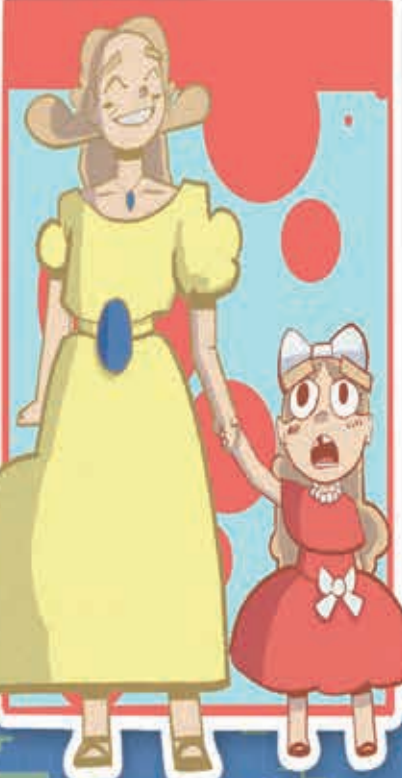

She listened to the strident voices debating the day's events. She pictured the Scotts standing weary yet proud on the courthouse steps.

The tension in the air bothered Sarah. It felt as if something big was coming. She held her grandmother's hand the entire way home.

Judge Alexander Hamilton has formally approved freedom for Mr. and Mrs. Dred Scott!"

There were shouts, jeers, and cheers; some sounded angry, and some sounded joyful.

"Did you hear that?" Sarah's grandmother asked excitedly.

Warrensburg girls adjust against Van Horn

By Joe Andrews
joea@warrensburgstarjournal.com

WARRENSBURG — The first half of Warrensburg girls basketball's game with Van Horn was an adjustment.

The Tigers played the contest without junior Kimberly Maxwell, who typically makes an impact in several different areas on the floor.

Once the second half came around, Warrensburg began to make the right moves. Their adaptation led to a 51-26 win on Tuesday, Jan. 18, at Warrensburg High School.

"We were playing without Kim to-night, she'll be back," Warrensburg head coach Melvin Myers said. "We were adjusting. That's a lot of points and a lot of different things she does for us. I kind of expected it, but I like how they fought. I was happy with the effort from the girls."

After scoring just 12 points in the first half, the Tigers (9-3) found the key in the third quarter outscoring Van Horn 24-5.

The frame included eight points from freshman Maleah Myers, five from sophomore Reece Nimmo and five from sophomore Adrianna Nunnelly.

The rhythm transferred over to junior Grace Hill in the fourth, who scored 10 points in the frame.

"I like how we started rebounding," Myers said. "We started playing defense, our press started getting going. It was kind of out of wack not having people in the right spots. We kind of started adjusting in the second half and they started turning it over. That's kind of what we do. When we're doing that, we feed off of that. That's a part of our offense."

The second half featured 11 combined points from Van Horn (3-4), who became the third-straight team that the Tigers have held to less than 26 points.

Like Warrensburg, Van Horn was also missing a few of its players. The Falcons won the first quarter 11-9, but proceeded to be outscored 42-15 to close the contest.

"We got to keep growing that way," Myers said of the defensive performance. "That's what I've been talking to them about since I got here. Our defense, that's how you win championships. By having a good defense."

All seven of the Tigers' players to record minutes scored, led by Hill's 14, Myers' 11, Nimmo's 10, Nunnelly's 10, junior Brookelynn Becker's four and sophomore Lillianne Teichman's two

Of the group, Teichman, Nimmo, Myers, Nunelly and Becker made the start.

Maxwell's absence brought Nimmo into the starting five for the night. Different faces stepping up to the occasion has been a trend as of late for Warrensburg, who've had a few other absences at different times so far this season.

Warrensburg boys grind out win over Excelsior Springs

By Joe Andrews
joea@warernsburgstarjournal.com

WARRENSBURG — Late in the third quarter against Excelsior Springs, a switch flipped for Warrensburg boys basketball.

It all began to take place as threes began to fall for Warrensburg. Combined with the limitation of Excelsior Springs, the Tigers in white with cardinal lettering were able to take a 59-44 home win on Wednesday, Jan. 19.

"I thought we had good looks in the first half, but they just didn't fall," Warrensburg head coach Chris Nimmo said. "I thought in both the first half and third quarter especially when we had the right guys shooting, they just didn't fall. To our guys' credit, they kept shooting."

Game-minutes 16 through 24 marked the start of the game's first break-away. It all started towards the latter half of the period, when a three from junior Mason Wyatt fell.

His triple marked the first of eight to fall within the second half, and the first of three to conclude the third quarter.

His hit was followed by an open look from sophomore Josh Thomas before junior Gauge Claunch closed the quarter with a buzzer-beater to give Warrensburg (7-9, 1-0 MRVC West) a 43-30 lead.

The 13-point separation was also built thanks to a defense that gave up single-digit scoring in the middle two quarters.

“We’ve been playing better overall,” Nimmo said. “It’s started with our defense and reducing our turnovers.”

Warrensburg initially led 8-6 to open the contest before Excelsior Springs (1-11, 0-2 MRVC West) took the lead by the end of the first quarter.

From there, the lead stuck in Excelsior Springs’ advantage, though the difference never extended by more than a few baskets.

Thanks to a splash from senior Luke Othic on the buzzer, the difference was just 25-23 at halftime.

“We did not play with very much energy in the first half, we just didn’t,”

Junior Tony Farr puts up a shot against Excelsior Springs on Wednesday, Jan. 19, at Warrensburg High School.

Nimmo said. “I thought our energy in the third quarter was really really good.”

In total, Warrensburg had eight different players record a basket. Claunch led with 17, Wyatt had 12, senior Derek Nicas had 10, Thomas had eight, senior Zach Munsterman had four, Othic had three, junior Jace Stanton had three and junior Tony Farr had two.

The win gave Warrensburg its third-straight win, having beaten Moberly, Marshall beforehand.

The Tigers were hoping to continue the grind against Pleasant Hill on Friday, Jan. 21, and Summit Christian Academy on Saturday, Jan. 22. Both games have been called off due to the cancelation of school on Thursday, Jan. 20 and Friday.

As things stand, Warrensburg is scheduled to return to the hardwood Wednesday Jan. 26, at Boonville.

WHAT'S NEW ON HULU

"Mayday" (2021)

Let go of everything you think you know about women and enter another world with "Mayday," the recent film making its way to Hulu on Thursday, Jan. 27. After drifting off to sleep in a "normal," everyday world, Ana (Grace Van Patten, "Nine Perfect Strangers"), a hotel worker, wakes up to find herself in a completely different location amid an endless war and surrounded by a group of young women she doesn't know. As she begins to get her bearings in this new world, Ana learns that the women she has joined are part of a small but dangerous society that interferes with and ends the lives of others. Taking up residency inside a beached submarine, the women use the marine craft's radio to make contact with the men in war vessels at sea and lure them to their deaths — not unlike the sirens of 19th-century lore. While at first Ana feels empowered by the forceful intensity of these women and their "mission," it isn't long before the former hotel worker realizes she might not be cut out for her new life. Written and directed by Karen Ciorre ("Last Date," 2016), this haunting fantasy thriller also stars Mia Goth ("Suspiria," 2018), Soko ("Her," 2013), Havana Rose Liu

("The Chair"), Théodore Pellerin ("On Becoming a God in Central Florida"), Juliette Lewis ("Yellowjackets") and Zlatko Buric ("2012," 2009).

WHAT'S NEW ON NETFLIX

"The Beast" (2022)

The new Spanish horror drama "The Beast" (also titled both "The Wasteland" and "El Páramo") debuts on Netflix on Wednesday, Jan. 26. The film's story follows young Diego (Asier Flores, "Pain and Glory," 2019) and his mentally unwell mother, Lucía (Imma Cuesta, "The Bride," 2015), as they lead secluded but tranquil lives in the 19th century. Living in a house in the middle of nowhere where they remain isolated from the rest of society, Martí Lucas ("Gran Nord") and Fran Menchón ("Trivial," 2019). Roberto Álamo ("May God Save Us," 2016), Alejandra Howard ("Fatima," 2020) and Víctor Benjumea ("The Dark Village," 2019) also star.

"The Woman in the House Across the Street from the Girl in the Window"

Everything is not always at it seems, as the protagonist of this brand-new dark comedy miniseries is soon to discover. "The Woman in the House Across the Street From the Girl in the Window" premieres on Netflix on Friday, Jan. 28. For heartbroken Anna (Kristen Bell, "The Good Place"), every day is the same. As she mixes overindulging on wine with an abundance of prescription medication, Anna is perfectly content to stay put and watch the world pass her by. But when a handsome man (Tom Reilly, "The Nevers") and his daughter move in across the street, looking in on their life from afar becomes her new favorite pastime — that is, until she witnesses a gruesome murder in the house (or so it seems). A satire on the genre of psychological thrillers that sees ordinary women unwittingly stumbling into dark and dangerous situations, this new series mixes comic relief into the horror genre for its fans. Created and written by Hugh Davidson ("Robot Chicken"), Larry Dorf and Rachel Ramras (both of "Nobodies" and "Mike Tyson Mysteries"), the series is directed by Michael Lehmann ("American Horror Story"). "The Woman in the House" also stars Michael Ealy ("Stumptown"), Appy Pratt ("Rattlesnake," 2019), Nicole Pulliam ("Fashion House"), Ramras and Christopher Chen ("Young Rock").

"In From the Cold" - Season 1

Netflix's brand-new, female-driven spy thriller series, "In From the Cold," premieres

Cillian O'Sullivan and Margarita Levieva star in "In From the Cold"

Khmelnitskaya ("Three Happy Women"), Stasya Miloslavskaya ("The Bull," 2019), Lola Mae Loughran ("Skins"), Amanda Bright ("Coronation Street"), José Luis García Pérez ("Buried," 2010) and Anastasia Martin ("Heirs of the Night") also star in the series.

tures a hilariously talented cast including Tiffany Haddish ("Girls Trip," 2017), Zoe Chao ("Love Life"), Dave Franco ("Neighbors," 2014), Sam Richardson ("Veep"), Ben Schwartz ("Parks and Recreation"), Ike Barinholtz ("Suicide Squad," 2016), Ilana Glazer ("Broad City"), Genieve Angelson ("The Upside," 2017), Jamie Demetriou ("Stath Lets Flats"), Everly Carganilla ("Yes Day," 2021) and Tiya Sircar ("The Good Place").

Friday, Jan. 28, on the streaming platform. In Europe on vacation with her daughter, Becca (newcomer Lydia Fleming), American single mother Jenny Franklin (Margarita Levieva, "The Lincoln Lawyer," 2011) was hoping for a quiet trip away, but her life quickly gets turned upside down when the CIA forces Jenny to confront her long-buried past as a Russian spy. To make matters even more complicated, Jenny is the result of a highly classified KGB experiment granting the selected participants with special abilities. When a string of mysterious murders is perpetrated by someone who seems to share the exact same shapeshifting abilities as Jenny, she is forced out of hiding to confront the villain so as not to lose her family and simple new life. Written and executive produced by Adam Glass ("Supernatural"), the series is directed by Ami Canaan Mann ("Jackie & Ryan," 2014) and Birgitte Staermose ("Darling," 2017). WHAT'S NEW ON APPLE TV+

"The Afterparty" - Season 1

The party never stops with the new Apple TV+ comedy series "The Afterparty," premiering its first three episodes on Friday, Jan. 28 (new episodes air weekly on Fridays thereafter). Comedy meets murder mystery in this new series, as a group of former classmates attends the after-party for their high school reunion. When the night ends in a shocking murder, everyone is a suspect. As the detectives on scene grill each member of the party individually, the details of the night are revealed piece by piece until the shocking (and deadly) conclusion is uncovered. Each of the series' eight episodes is told from the point of view of one of the suspects, with a unique storytelling and videographic style used to suit each partygoer's identity and unique personality. From the creative mind of executive producer, director and writer Christopher Miller ("The Lego Movie," 2014), the series fea-

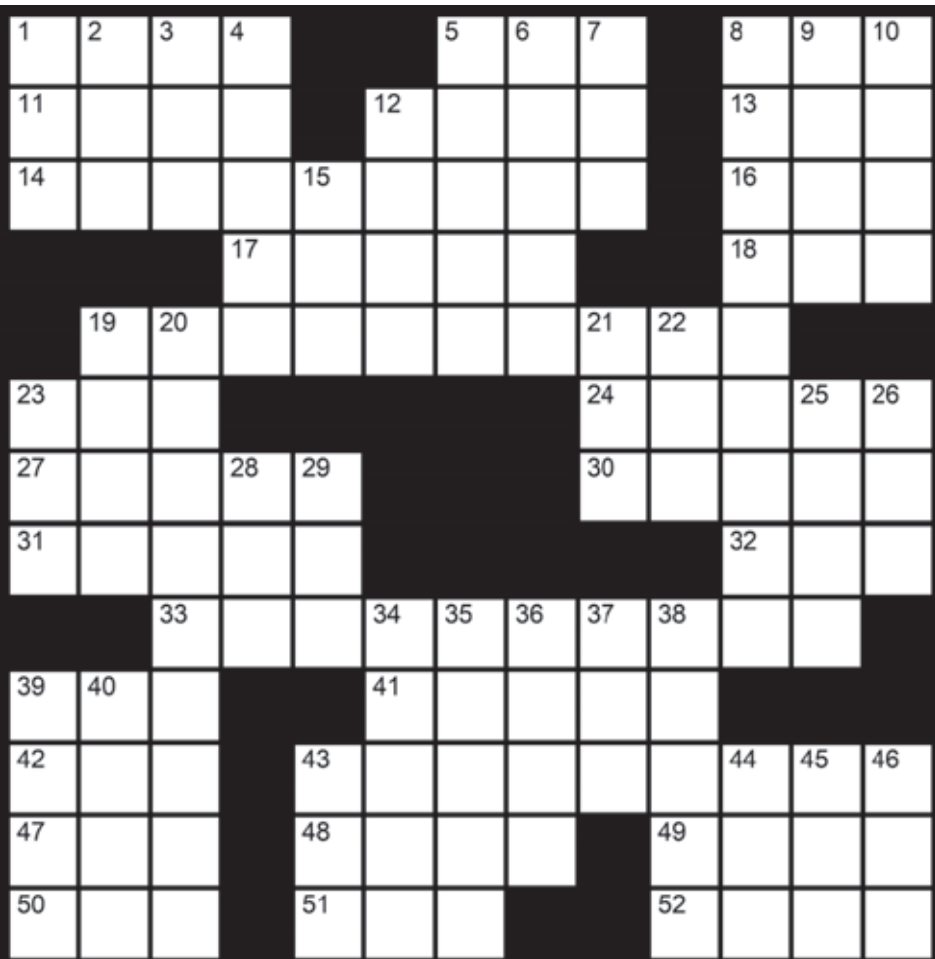

WHAT'S NEW ON DISNEY+ "The Ice Age Adventures of Buck Wild" (2022)

The prehistoric adventures continue with "The Ice Age Adventures of Buck Wild," premiering Friday, Jan. 28, on Disney+. Desperate to get some distance from their older sister, Ellie (voiced by "The Equalizer's" Queen Latifah in the franchise), possum brothers Crash (Vincent Tong, "Ninjago") and Eddie (newcomer Aaron Harris) set out to find a place of their own. When their search finds them trapped in a massive underground cave, they end up on a new adventure with the adventure-loving, dinosaur-hunting weasel named Buck Wild (Simon Pegg, "Hot Fuzz," 2007). Together the new friends must face the unruly dinosaurs that inhabit this lost, underground world. Directed by John C. Donkin ("Ice Age," 2002), the film is written by Ray DeLaurentis ("Fairly OddParents"), Jim Hecht ("Ice Age: The Meltdown," 2006) and William Schriffrin ("T.U.F.F. Puppy").
